Naledi Aphane interacting with fans, players, colleagues, and listeners

INTRODUCTION

I am Sihle Ndlovu, a self-taught front-end engineer with a particular focus on web development. I am looking to build my portfolio resume with projects, hence why I approached you (client).

THE OFFER

I am offering to build a professional website where you'll showcase your expertise in the sports industry. This website will provide international exposure markets and establish your brand as one of the best up-and-coming voices in the sports broadcasting sphere

PROJECT OVERVIEW

Ordinarily a similar project takes approximately 15 business days to complete and consists of 5 different stages, namely:

Discovery ~ 2 days

This is where the client provides any and all information, content, copy, media that they would like to appear on their page. This includes but is not limited to biography, previous work, images, videos, mission statement and testimonials

Design ~ 3 days

I will then use the information gathered from the client through discovery to design a suitable website layout with wireframes and sketches to create a vision picture of how the finished product will look like. Consultation with client is encouraged for approval of design

Development ~ 5 days

This is when I will begin actually building the user-friendly, intuitive and responsive website using HTML, CSS and JS technologies

Testing ~ 3 days

The website will be user-tested in the real world to see if it works as it should, if not debugging will take place to fix any remaining issues

Launch ~ 2 days

The code is complete and ready for deployment and hosting. Website goes live.

N.B. The service of deploying and hosting your website with a unique domain name (for example www.nalediaphane.co.za) is provided by a 3rd party. This usually is not a free service and comes at a cost to you the client

REMUNERATION

I am offering my services free-of-charge, mahala, nada, qanda. Pro bono. In exchange, I only ask that you provide a testimonial that reflects your satisfaction with my work. And that you refer my services to any new clients in need of websites
